Crisis and Emergency Mental Health Services at Community Hospital

Persons unable to afford private mental health services may now receive care through a program approved by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, according to Thomas E. Tonkin, administrator of Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

Anyone needing aid may now contact the Mental Health Center of Community Hospital by phoning 624-5311, extension 135.

The program provides mental health crisis intervention, day hospital treatment and a 24-hour mental health information answering service. Supervisors, at their meeting in Salinas, approved a contract to provide these services. It is between the Monterey County Mental Health Services and the Mental Health Center of Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

The Board allocated $153,000 in state and county funds for the new program. Dr. Frederick Ziegler, director of the Mental Health Center of Community Hospital, said crisis teams of mental health specialists have been formed and are available around the clock. These teams will work with an upset person and the family members concerned to try to find some effective alternative to hospitalization.

Dr. Ziegler said the Mental Center at Community Hospital is now providing day hospital treatment for patients. Through this program, the patients are able to be with their families in the evening. "Day patient treatment is similar to the more expensive in-patient treatment and is equally intensive during the time patients are in the hospital," he said. "These day patients have the benefit of group therapy, occupational therapy, recreational therapy, psychodrama and other aspects of the program that make up what is called 'milieu therapy.' Under milieu therapy, patients are encouraged to take a problem-solving approach to situations they are reacting to with emotional upset and they are helped in this by the Mental Health Center staff and by other patients."

"Many studies now show that day hospital treatment may be equally effective or superior to in-patient psychiatric hospital treatment at a considerable reduction in cost and without paying the price of having to remove the more upset person from his family."

Dr. Ziegler said he and Dr. Richard Fraser, director of Monterey County Mental Health Services and Dr. Terrence O'Meara, program director of Monterey County Mental Health Services, are working on plans to more effectively interrelate mental health care.

The Community Hospital will play a primary coordinating role in providing information about mental health services in this part of the county. Members of crisis teams will discuss problems on the telephone with anyone who calls the Mental Health Center at any time.

By calling 624-5311, extension 135, residents may find out where to go for help. Referrals may be made to the Family Service Association, the Mental Health Clinic in Monterey, to community counselors who are working with the local schools on youth and family problems, including drug use problems.

Referrals also may be made to the Aquarian House program in Monterey, Los Pinos Hospital in Pacific Grove as well as the Mental Health Center at Community Hospital.

Dr. Ziegler said both Aquarian House, (phone 373-4773), which helps those with drug related and other problems and the Suicide Prevention Center of Monterey County (phone 373-0713) operate a telephone answering service 24 hours a day. "They have and will continue to render an extremely valuable community service," he said.

Monterey Gets Funds

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky and Assemblyman Bob Wood have announced a matching grant of $12,500 to the City of Monterey for development at the Veterans Memorial Park. The money is made available from California's share of the Land and Water Conservation Fund.

The purpose of the program is to assist state and local governments in acquiring and developing outdoor recreation resources for their areas. In California, the program is administered by the State Department of Parks and Recreation.

Money for the program comes from the sale of surplus federal properties, a special marine fuel tax, the sale of entrance permits and user fees at federal outdoor recreation areas and oil revenues through the Outer Continental Shelf Act.

TAKES OVER - Sam Brown (center) accepts gavel and congratulations from Lynn Davis, Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis Club, as he is installed as president of Seaside Kiwanis Club. Looking on is Richard Penrose, immediate past president of organization. Other officers installed were: Dr. Jim Solberg, vice president; Lane Sandberg, secretary; Merrield Beck, treasurer. Richard Penrose, Rev. Ray Wise, John Knight, Billy DeBerry, Floyd Whipple, Finely Sutton and Duand Lyman were all elected to Board of Directors.

MPUSD To Change Work Program

Park Measure May Be On Ballot

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District has been evaluating their Work Experience Program for the past year, not only within its own organization, but also working with the Citizens Advisory Committee.

The purpose of this approach will seek to eliminate this repetition.

One person (Work Experience Assistant) will be assigned to contact the employers in the community in order to obtain job stations for all students - regular, handicapped and the disadvantaged. This individual will be a liaison between the community and the Work Experience Specialist in each high school. By utilizing the Work Experience Assistant, the Work Experience personnel in each school will be able to devote more time in working with students in terms of job preparation and a realistic selection of job stations.

As a result of these innovations, the total approach will be district-wide rather than school-centered. The Work Experience Assistant will work from the District Office of the Coordinator of Occupational/Vocational Education, Alden Phillips. The Work Experience Specialist in each school will be working in the same direction.

Employers will have only one phone number to call (649-7291) to give information about the availability of a job station. The Citizens Advisory Committee is chaired by Robert Stewart, Personnel Recruitment Director at Fort Ord.

Report Shows More Burden

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy recently released his annual report on county tax rates and assessed value.

"In the mass of figures, one slow but steady trend is evident," Flournoy stated. "The upward creep of the county tax burden is continuing. The are advances and retreats from county to county. But on a broad front the county portion of property taxes is making greater demands than the natural growth in property values can support at a given rate."

The unweighted average tax rate for our fifty-eight counties rose this past year from $2,893 to $3,008 per $100 of assessed value. At the same time, the assessment ratio climbed from 23.2 percent to 24.2 percent toward the required 25 percent. These two factors in combination will produce an increase in the county property tax bills of most Californians.

Flournoy reported that statewide tax rates for county government varied from $1.70 to $4.60, a spread of 270 percent. Assessment ratios ranged from 19.2 percent of market value to 25.2 percent, a variation of 32.8 percent.

Next Tuesday, October 26 at 2 p.m., the Monterey County Board of Supervisors will be asked to put a measure establishing a Monterey Peninsula Park and Open Space District on the ballot.

The proposed district would cover the area from Marina south to Anderson's Landing (below Big Sur) and the Carmel Valley. This is the same area as the Monterey Peninsula College District.

It would be administered by a five or seven member board (the number to be decided by the Board of Supervisors) elected by precinct, which would be empowered to levy property taxes of up to ten cents per $100 of assessed value and to use the funds for acquiring public open space land.

Supporters of the proposition presented over 700 signatures on petitions asking for the district, but the decision of whether to place the measure on the ballot rests with the Board of supervisors.

The measure is supported by local chapters of the League of Women Voters, American Institute of Architects, Audubon Society, Sierra Club and other groups. They feel the district is necessary to protect the unique character and natural beauty of Peninsula. The County Parks Commission, they feel, is responsible for the entire county, and cannot meet the needs of the Peninsula, with its special features and problems.

The Park and Open Space District, proponents feel, would provide the mechanism for keeping important open land from being developed.

Further information on the proposal is available from Sean Flavin, 372-7535 or 373-3978.

Senator Alan Cranston has proposed that workers whose unemployment compensation has run out be given an additional 26 weeks of benefits if they live in cities where the unemployment rate is 7.5 percent or higher.

Cranston made the statement to the Senate Finance Committee after Senator Warren G. Magnuson of Washington told the Committee he was introducing legislation that would extend UC benefits in states where unemployment is at the 7.5 percent level.

In response to questioning, Cranston said he supported the Magnuson proposal but "would go a step farther to apply it to cities" with severe unemployment.

The unemployment level in California is currently 7 percent. Unemployment rates in Los Angeles and Anaheim were above 7.5 percent in July, but they currently stand at 7.4 percent for the Anaheim area and 7.3 percent for Los Angeles.

Other severely depressed California metropolitan areas are San Bernardino, with a 7.1 percent rate of unemployment and Stockton-Sacramento, with 6.5.

Under Magnuson's proposal, the federal government would absorb the total governmental cost of the extended compensation to July 1, 1973. After that, the federal share would drop to 80 percent. The tax paid by employers would rise from 3.2 percent of their annual payroll to 3.25 percent.

Cranston had appeared before the committee to urge that the excise tax on new cars, which President Nixon wants repealed, be reinstated after a one year suspension, with the revenues to go into a trust fund for mass transportation aid to cities, counties and rapid transit districts.

Probation Subsidy Program Working

Expected commitments of youths and adults to state institutions were reduced by 4,495 in 1970-71 as a result of California's probation subsidy program, it was disclosed recently by Allen F. Breed, director of the Department of the Youth Authority.

This is the greatest reduction since the program was started five years ago. Commitments have been reduced by 15,801 during the five-year period.

For Monterey County, commitments during 1970-71 were reduced from an expected level of 133 to 81, a total decrease of 52. This reduction will entitle the county to maximum earnings of $208,000 from the subsidy program.

The program, first enacted by the State Legislature in 1965, provides subsidies to counties in return for reductions in levels of commitment. The earnings must be used to provide intensive probation programs for youthful and adult offenders.

For 1970-71, the counties' maximum earnings totaled $18,145,142, a new high for the five years of the program.

In 1966-67, the first year of the program, earnings totaled $5.7 million. Earnings increased to $9.8 million in 1967-68, to $13.7 million in 1968-69, and to $14.2 million in 1969-70.

The number of participating counties increased from 31 at the outset to 46 in 1969-70, but dropped to 44 in 1970-71. Counties which have withdrawn from the program are Marin and San Mateo because both had had relatively low commitment rate which made it difficult for them to achieve earnings under the program and Santa Cruz County which also was unable to generate earnings.

Participating counties represent more than 95 percent of the state's total population. San Mateo has re-entered the program this fiscal year.

CYA Director Breed, in announcing the fifth annual report of the program, said that probation subsidy is continuing to gain momentum both in terms of money saved and in human values.

The subsidy paid to the counties is considerably less than what it would cost the state's taxpayers to keep the offenders in prisons or juvenile institutions. At the same time, correctional experts agree that an offender's chances of rehabilitation are frequently better in his home community, where he can keep working to support his family or remain in school.

The reduction of commitments also has sharply scaled down the need to build new institutions and prisons--a potential savings of millions of dollars. For the Youth Authority, for example, construction of new institutions has come to a halt. Institutional populations have been declining steadily since the program began in 1970.

The program is administered by the Youth Authority for both adult and juvenile offenders. It sets up a complex formula under which counties are given subsidies for placing certain offenders--those whose prognosis for rehabilitation looks most promising in the community rather than in an institution--on probation instead of sending them to state institutions. At the same time, the program provides the counties with funds which they need to set up intensive probation supervision of these offenders.

The counties must use their subsidy earnings to provide special supervision programs in their probation departments. The programs include reduction of caseloads for individual probation officers and such special services as foster homes, improved tutoring, psychological and psychiatric help and employment services. The subsidies encourage the counties to develop new and innovative programs to rehabilitate offenders.

Deadline Is Near

Only ten days remain for high school seniors living or attending school in Pacific Gas and Electric Company's service area to file applications to compete for one of PG&E's $4,000 college scholarships.

Dr. David B. Stewart, director of PG&E's educational activities, said that applications to compete in the scholarship program must be postmarked no later than Saturday, October 30.

Applications are available at all PG&E offices and through high school counselors.

A total of sixteen scholarships will be awarded by the company next April. Twelve of the scholarships are apportioned among operating divisions of the company in Northern and Central California. Two scholarships will be awarded for special recognition of students recommended by their schools for their achievements despite disadvantages. The two remaining scholarships will be awarded to students whose parents or guardians are employees of PG&E.

We were finally able to wind up the World Series with the Pirates from Pittsburgh dethroning the world champion Baltimore Orioles in the seventh game of an exciting series. I guess that I am just a pigeon for the underdog because I was hoping against hope that the Pirates could somehow win the series against those four powerful 20-game winners that Baltimore had. And then, when the Pirates went down so badly in those two games, I was rooting all the harder for them to come back. And come back they did. Baltimore might have had the edge in their pitching staff, but Pittsburgh had the spirit that it took to win it. It is somehow surprising how many people who would otherwise have absolutely no interest in baseball take in the World Series and really get involved in the day by day play. Just take my wife Jeannie, who probably doesn't even know which team is in the American league or which is in the National. But there she was in front of that television set clapping as hard as she could when Manny Sanguillen stole a base and almost crying when Baltimore won the sixth game as they scored the winning run of reliever Bob Miller in the bottom of the tenth inning. You should have heard Jeannie blast Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh for taking out his top relief pitcher, Dave Guisti, who seemed to be doing so well. She still thinks that the Pirates could have ended the series in that game if Murtaugh had only left in Guisti. I use Jeannie as an example of how many people

FIESTA TIME

From our neighbors south of the border, here's a borrowed luncheon idea...

It is a quick version of Mexican chile con queso (chili with cheese).

Rinse the seeds from one small can of peeled green chiles. Dice the chiles finely.

Mince one large onion and one clove of garlic. Cook in 1/4 cup of olive oil until wilted.

Add two tablespoons of flour, then stir in one cup of thin cream. Stir until smooth. Add 1/2 pound of shredded mild cheddar cheese and the chiles.

Heat, stirring until the cheese melts.

Serve either with corn chips as an appetizer or over toasted tortillas for lunch.

Serves four.

This is a recipe that is sure to be popular with the family and the cook.

Cadet Program Comes To Monterey

The Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the Navy League is seeking young men between the ages of 14 and 17 to join the Navy's Sea Cadet program.

The Sea Cadet Corps is sponsored jointly by the Department of the Navy and the Navy League. It offers teenagers a chance to become acquainted with all aspects of the Navy and to actually participate in summer cruises aboard ships of the fleet.

After completing the program, Cadets are eligible to enlist in the regular Navy or reserves at an advanced rate. They are also made aware of the educational opportunities through the Navy, such as the Naval Academy and NROTC program.

While membership in the cadet program is not considered membership in any branch of the armed forces, young men are better able to determine if the Navy or Coast Guard is suitable to them for either a military career or for fulfilling their military obligation.

For more information about the program, write to: USS MONTEREY COUNTY DIVISION, c/o Naval Reserve Training Center, 100 Light-house Ave., Monterey, CA. 93940 or phone 372-7670.

Stores Can Stop Stamps

R. F. Harless, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for Northern California, has reported that the Cost of Living Council has ruled that retail outlets may discontinue trading stamps (S&H, Top Value, Blue Chip, Gold Bond, etc.) if they pass on the value of the stamps to their customers in the form of lower prices on their merchandise.

Merchants can lower their prices in either of two ways. They can lower the prices of everything they sell by the value of the stamps or at cash registers they can deduct the value of the stamps from the prices of those items for which trading stamps would have been given. The value of the stamps is the market value at which they may be redeemed and not the cost to the retailer.

Retailers choosing to deduct the value of stamps at cash registers on items for which they would have issued stamps, must post in a prominent place in each retail outlet at least one sign (minimum of 30" x 40"), plus a readily visible sign at each cash register, advising customers of the discontinuance of trading stamps and the reduction in total value of the merchandise they are buying.

The Night Owls, newest chapter of the Children's Home Society on the Monterey Peninsula, is having its first big fund raising event!

Church Services

True life and goodness have no end, according to the Bible Lesson-Sermon on "Probation After Death" at Christian Science churches Sunday.

One of the passages to be read from Psalms affirms: "Thou wilt show me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore."

A hint of what this can mean in terms of today's life style is given in this citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life and goodness are immortal. Let us then shape our views of existence into loveliness, freshness, and continuity, rather than into age and blight."

tober 30, 12-9 p.m., and Sunday October 31, 12-5 p.m.

More than thirty artisans with a wide variety of hand crafted items to display and sell have been selected for this event. There are so many great things available, it's impossible to mention them all. However, just a few are: Jewelry (silver knits; wood-carved items (everything from a bud vase to a coffee table); pastel water colors; oil paintings; rare coins; metal sculpture and antique boards.

Night Owl members will sell home baked food and there will be a puppet show every hour by Thinker Toys of Carmel. This is a good opportunity to get a head start on your Christmas buying. There is something in every price range for every age group at this show. Donation is $1. Tickets are available at the door or from any member of the Night Owls.

New Display Inspect At MPC

The unusual collage art work of Lois Dvorak is currently on view in Gallery No. 1 in the Main Craft Shop at Ft. Ord. It will remain through October 24.

Mrs. Dvorak, the wife of Private First Class Ronald Dvorak, who is studying Russian at the Defense Language Institute Presidio of Monterey, studied at Colorado University at Ft. Collins and did graduate work in art education at Colorado State College in Greeley. She taught art in Denver junior high schools for two years, as well as an adult education class. She will continue her teaching and art career when she returns to Colorado.

Mrs. Dvorak's collages began as experimental découpage, expanding from acrylic paints into oils. She uses old wood, saw blades, plants, old newspapers, doors and other interesting materials.

The Craft Shop is located in Building 2250 at the corner of 2nd Ave. and 8th St. Hours are 1 to 9:30 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. All are welcome.

Ceiling Price

Ceiling prices need not be posted in every store, but the seller is required to have supporting records "reasonably available" on request. This ruling by the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) was reemphasized recently by R.F. Harless, District Director, Internal Revenue Service, for Northern California.

In order to facilitate access to price records of sellers, the seller must maintain and have available a list of his ceiling prices, he may ask the seller to produce his supporting records. If the seller is unwilling to produce these records, the customer should provide evidence of the alleged violation to the local office of the Internal Revenue Service and file a complaint. The Internal Revenue Service will then investigate the complaint.

ple do get interested in this spectacle of our "national pastime." I don't count myself out of that group either. Generally, I am a professional football fan, but when October comes around the World Series is on, you'll find me in front of that TV instead of doing my work and then having to run around after the game picking up the pieces that I left undone.

This reminds me of something I told the Seaside Kiwanis Club last week when I spoke at their regular Tuesday morning breakfast meeting about when I was Chief Consultant to the Joint Rules Committee in the State Legislature. The Chairman of the Rules Committee was Assemblyman Allen Miller of San Fernando. It seems that Miller was somehow involved in a bill which would change the hunting and fishing code in regard to doves. I don't remember the details of the bill, but I do know that it changed the rules in regard to how many doves you could shoot or something like that. You should have seen the stacks of mail we got every day from both the proponents of the new law and, of course, from the opponents and also from a third group who were the conservationists that were opposed to the shooting of any amount of doves. On many days we would receive from 500 to 600 letters on this issue. The hearings were hot and heavy and it was so insignificant to me that I don't even remember the results, but I do remember the hullabaloo that those dove hunters and dove lovers raised in the state capitol.

My whole point to the Kiwanians was: why can't we get people just as excited about what happens to laws which affect live people as we can about the World Series and doves. Day after day, the State Legislature and the Congress propose and pass laws that affect our very own lives and we pay absolutely no attention to them. How many of you even know the name of your Congressman or Assemblyman or State Senator. I'll bet not very many. Just in case you're interested your Congressman is Republican Burt Talcott. He has offices in Salinas and Washington. Your Assemblyman is Bob Wood, who also has an office in Salinas and one at the State Capitol in Sacramento. Your state Senator is Don Grunsky, whose home and office is in Watsonville. Wood and Grunsky incidentally are also Republicans. Your two United States Senators are Alan Cranston and John Tunney, both Democrats who have offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles, as well as in Washington. I know each of these men with the exception of Tunney, very well. They can be talked to and will listen to what you have to say. With the exception of Talcott, I have always received action on any request I have put before them. In Talcott's case, I have never had occasion to go to him for anything so I don't know how much response I might get. Maybe one of you has something you would like him to do for you. Ask him and see what kind of response you get.

Let's take an interest in ourselves and in our own welfare and pay some attention to what goes on around us - for our own good.

Letters To The Editor

Editor: On behalf of our local chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, I want to express our deep gratitude to the concerned individuals - in our community and neighboring areas - who responded so generously and wholeheartedly to Jerry Lewis' Labor Day Weekend Telethon for the benefit of our Association.

Of the fabulous final total of $8,125,387 in contributions and pledges raised on the nationwide Telethon network of approximately 120 public-spirited T. V. stations, we're extremely proud that KNTV and KBBK TV made considerable sacrifices to relay the show to viewers here.

Speaking for the MD patients we serve and for the research scientists striving to find a cure for dystrophy and related crippling disorders, all I can say is "THANK YOU!" Sincerely,

David Taylor

Editor: As Women's Liberation achieves equality it could be the best lobbyist in Congress for Men's Liberation. To maintain a status quo where inequities in the law favor women, it must obtain the same advantages for men. Its stated purpose is equality!

Quoting from the Social Security Rules, "Just how much credit you must have to be fully insured depends upon the year you reach 65 if you are a man, or 62 if you are a woman. . . . Just why should the male with 4 years less life expectancy at age 62, wait 3 years more to be fully insured? This is a disparity of 7 years.

The American widow, endowed with hindsight, could advise Congress on the shortcomings of male retirement at age 65. Overheard on a bus between Tampa and St. Petersburg, Florida, - one retired man to another: "All my traveling is done between these two cities. I am 68. All my life I looked forward to this time when I could travel and see the world. Before, I had neither the time nor the money. Now I have the time and the money, but not the health."

The Gross National Product of 100 billions of dollars when Social Security went into effect 35 years ago is now 1000 billions, or one trillion dollars. Inflation notwithstanding, haven't we reached a productivity plateau that could give the worker the benefit of 5 years earlier retirement?

The 60 to 65 age group will create new wealth in goods and services related to activity in chosen vocations. The retirement dollar will circulate better throughout the nation.

Removing the five year age group at the top makes room for the 18 to 23 year olds at the bottom. Together, the right to vote and the right to work preserves democracy. Gainfully employed, our Youth will cool the flames of revolution!

Gentlemen, initiate your own Liberation Movement now! Give priority to a fully insured status at age 60, male and females, and maximum Social Security retirement pay at age 60 for workers with 5 years work credit. However, retirement before age 65 should remain voluntary.

Write to your Congressmen or clip this article and send it to same. Your local Public Library can assist you with their complete names and addresses.

As I See It

By Mel Vercoe

Do you pay taxes? Would you be interested in having your taxes increased? Or maybe reduced? Would you believe there is a way to reduce your taxes?

Holding down the national debt would help. In 1940 a billion dollars of your tax money went to pay the interest on the national debt. Last year twenty billion dollars went for interest on the national debt. From this we might deduce that is not desirable to keep increasing the national debt. In 1940 each man, woman and child in the U.S. paid (on the average) eight dollars in interest on the national debt, while last year they average one hundred dollars each.

Letting our population increase while holding the national debt at its present four hundred billion would distribute the debt over more people. Your own share of it at this moment happens to be two thousand dollars. Our Congress has been consistently voting to allow the debt ceiling to be increased, with the help of our own Congressman in this district, and it is something like a fellow spending a hundred dollars per week when his income is only eighty dollars per week. He not only gets further into debt, but the cost of the loan keeps increasing.

On the other hand everyone knows that money that comes from Washington, D.C., is free. Federal grants grow on trees. The money that goes to foreign countries to support various dictators is dished out with scoopshovels because it has lost its identity and the millions of people who paid it into Washington with their income tax returns have kissed it goodbye and really don't seem to care what happens to it from there on in.

The average taxpayer hasn't even the slightest idea of how much of his money is being used to pay for hydrogen bombs or helicopter gunships or radar guidance systems or apartments in Paris for the wife of Vice President Ky. But this average taxpayer has a pretty accurate picture of how much of his money goes to pay for schools when the money comes out of his property taxes. Why? Because the money does not travel as far and it does not lose as much of its identity.

So, our schools are in continual trouble financially, while things like military programs have so much money available nobody even bothers to look for it when two or three hundred million dollars is accidentally misplaced.

Now, back to our main thesis - maybe if income taxes were used to finance our schools, and property taxes were sole source of revenue for our military, isn't it possible mismanagement of military and foreign aid money more difficult? As a property owner, what would be your reaction to having your taxes increased for the purpose of building a new palace for Chiang Kai Shek or President Thieu? Or would you rather not answer that question?

Seriously, readers, how about some letters expressing your opinions on taxes, Nixon's China trip and what to do about jobs for veterans returning from Vietnam? Do you think Melvin Laird's Pentagon could get by on your property taxes? Would complete federal supervision and funding of our schools be practical?

Bob Wood Reports

When I first arrived on this legislative scene here in Sacramento two and half years ago, I first heard the term "it's a motherhood bill" or a "motherhood piece of legislation." By this term, the various legislators and staff members were referring to the fact that a proposed bill had appeal to the general public and it would be hard to vote against the bill without incurring the wrath of the majority of the people regardless of what segment of society they represented.

This last year there have been numerous ecology measures whose popularity at the time seemed tantamount to assurance they would receive favorable consideration in both houses and could be termed in some cases "motherhood bills."

One of these bills had to do with the banning of the use of phosphates in everyday detergents. Wisely, a Senate committee sent the bills to interim study for additional research and to wait the outcome of extensive investigation by agencies of the federal government. You might say, to some degree, the committee's judgment paid off for in less than two months the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced from Washington a number of conclusions with respect to the health and environmental problems associated with detergents. These were backed up by the U.S. Council on Environmental Quality and the Environmental Protection Agency.

The report pointed out the recent highly advertised NTA (nitrilotriacetic acid -- I can hardly pronounce this word let alone spell it) used by a few of the minor soap companies as a substitute for phosphate, should not be used because of its possible long-term effects on health and the environment.

In effect, the government said that phosphates are "the least of the evils" among laundry detergents. At the same time, too, the federal agencies recommended that in view of their conclusions, states and localities were strongly urged to reconsider laws and policies which unduly restrict the use of phosphates in detergents.

It is reverse conclusions such as this that make me realize that even though there may be times when I might incur the wrath of the most liberal conservation groups by not accepting every ecology measure with lasting benefits, not only for our generation but for the generations to come.

THE PHONE BOOTH

This is the insignia of the Telephone Pioneers of America, 335,000 men and women from the telephone industry who believe that the most meaningful contributions an individual can make to his community are his time and energy.

This month, the Pioneers celebrate 60 years of "human service." In that time, they've worked as hospital volunteers, collected and repaired toys and clothes for needy children and worked extensively with the blind. These are only a few of their contributions.

We're proud to have such concerned, in volved men and women represent our industry.

The next time you have a question about your telephone service, check the front pages of your Monterey County phone book.

There you can find Area Codes for the United States and Canada, numbers for your police and fire departments, how to make different types of calls and other helpful information. There's even an index to save you time in finding what you need.

The Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies will be the recipient of all proceeds from the gala Pinata Auction to be held October 23rd at the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

Set to begin at 6 p.m. in the exhibition hall, those attending will find unique and valued items that will go to the highest bidder.

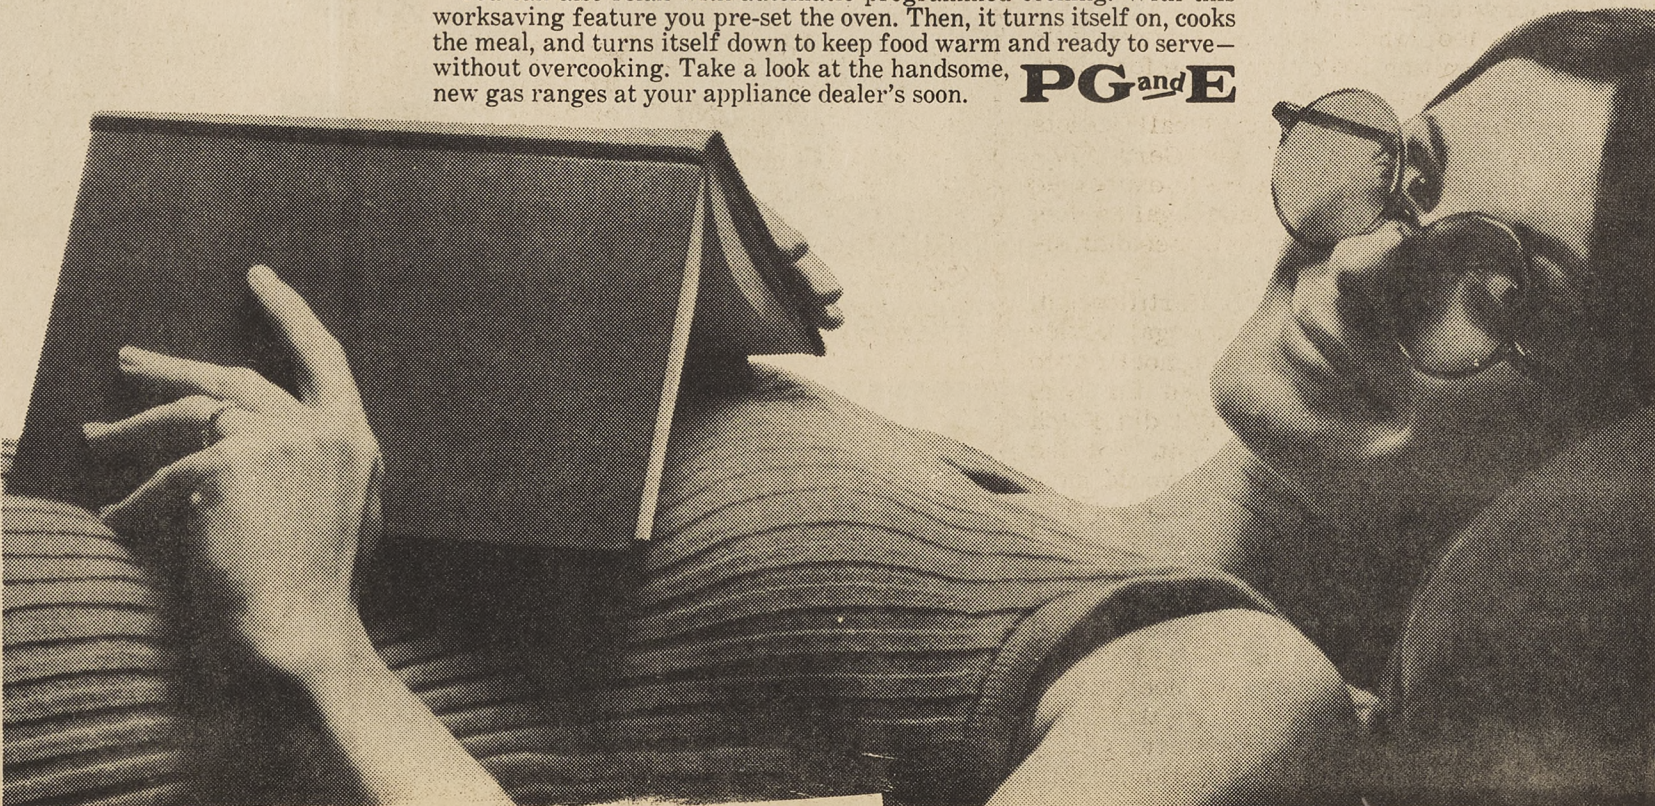

The evening's attire, Black Tie-optional or International dress, will set the mood for this elegant affair.

Tickets are $50 per person and include: $25 worth of scrip of bidding, wine, hors d'oeuvres, buffet dinner, continued drinks and a midnight supper.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi, there, Fellow Peninsulans,
I would like for all of you to read a letter I receive from Oliver Murray, former Seaside City Councilman. It cleared up a lot of things for me, as I am sure it will for many of you and I wish to offer my sincerest apologies to Mr. Murray and Steve Ross for my misjudgment of character. Here is the entire text of Mr. Murray's letter:

Dear Betty,
Recently I read your post-mortem column on the Seaside recall. Like most of our "friends" you were "on vacation that night. We missed you, Betty. And you missed a great show no matter what your point of view.

It was a real victory pageant for the Seaside Citizens for Good Government. All who had them wore their white shirts. They even brought their children to witness the triumph of their perjury dignified into law by the electoral process. The few people who had in the past stood up to that corrupt system of cronyism which had engineered the frauds, falsehoods, and misrepresentations of the Haddad-Weingarten Filth Factory sat their and witnessed their own execution.

You reported astonishment that Ross moved for certification of the recall vote, and that I voted for it. You called me "chicken". Let me explain something to you - if you have the fairness to understand.

Before the vote was taken the acting city attorney was asked for an opinion as to whether it was possible to table or refuse to certify the motion for certification. He responded that it was not possible. It was the duty of the members of the council to confirm the tally of the vote as presented—or be subject to the appropriate penalties for violation of the election laws. He further advised that the City Clerk was capable of declaring the council seats vacant and replace the defeated council members.

In the face of this advice and the attached law what would you have me do? Would you have been elated to see me join Mr. McGrath and Mrs. Carey to reject the motion to certify? And have that lady as well as McGrath and myself evicted from that council? Was that your wish?

Where would you have been if I had joined to obstruct the decision of that election and exposed my colleagues and myself to a felony conviction involving up to two years in prison and $5000 in fines. Have not my political principles cost me enough already?

Do you think for one minute that Heinous Haddad would have let that meeting end without arresting us for prosecution under those laws with all the force that Weingarten could muster?

No matter what the legal possibilities were for invalidating the recall through the courts, that night we were not there to express our sentiments on the merits of the election. Our duty was simply to confirm the tally of the electoral process. This is one of the number of instances where legislative officers are obligated to ratify the acts of others irrespective of their own opinions.

Do you think for one minute that after all the months of fighting the treason and infamy and defamation on this Community by Haddad and his Hoodlums of Hate, I could abandon my own sentiments on the issues of law that I had stood for in Seaside?

Who do you think raised the issue of the city attorney's treason?

Who raised the issue of the lawless premises of the recall itself?

Who do you think defined the issues that caused Paul Block, the publisher of the Herald, to personally investigate the facts and reverse the editorial position of the Herald on the Seaside City Government?

Who do you suppose exposed the Pit transaction for a corrupt real estate scheme?

Who fought the Laguna Grande Force—the plan that was not a plan but simply an add on to a device to but the Seaside American Legion for twice what it was worth? (And incidentally subsidized a nice vigilante committee at the same time!)

Who was it who fought (too many times to be mentioned) for fair play for black and white people at a disadvantage before that Council.

Research the last four years Mrs. Mann and cite ONE instance where I took a legal position that proved wrong—legally.

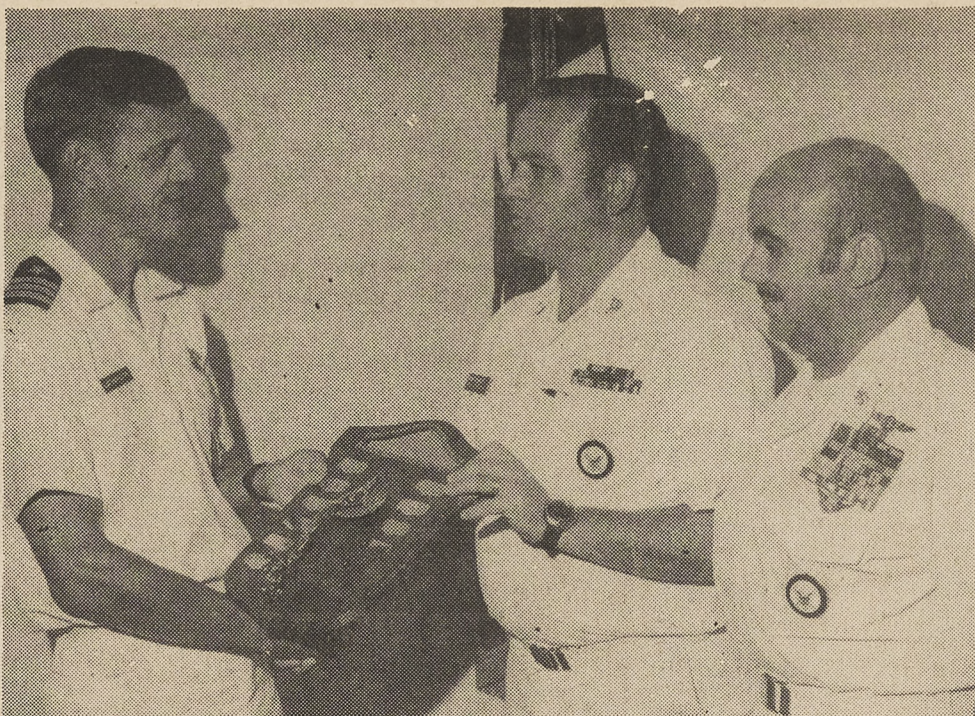

Research, too, when I enjoyed any commitment or recognition from the people for whom I sought the protection of the laws.

During the recount of the Recall ballots Ralph Corey talked to me and Gerry McGrath in the Council Chambers. He expressed his concern that Pearl got sound legal advice, that she did not get into an unforeseeable situation that would hurt her.

Well, the night of the recall Certification, Pearl was so confident of her legal advice (so arrogantly confident that it almost caved in my mind) that my heart ached for her. But events justify my belief that I did Ralph and Pearl Carey a favor that night. For the court system of Monterey County would have found her guilty of a felony much quicker than it could recognize defects in a law that had unjustly deprived her of her office.

I have written your boss Andy B. to show how the issues of justice were converted into issues of racial bigotry in order to make the recall vote successful. I have since watched the published revelation confirming the incest of the Weingarten-Haddad honeymoon, finally capped by the most recent revelation of Mr.

Aptitude Test Is Available

The Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery has been made available to students of Seaside High School.

This series of nine tests was designed by the Defense Department to measure aptitudes in occupational areas common to the military services. The areas covered are electronics, general mechanical, motor mechanical, clerical administrative and general technical. In addition to being common to the military, these areas cover the great majority of civilian occupations.

The battery will be administered by military personnel with no obligation on the part of the student. The results are computed by electronic data processing equipment and each student tested is furnished and individual copy of this results with an explanation of their meaning. Students interested in finding out more about themselves are encouraged to take this test. It will be given at Seaside High School on October 28 at 8.

For further information students should contact their counselor.

Dr. Joel Fort To Speak

Dr. Joel Fort, a leading authority on drug use and abuse, deviant behavior and social change, will talk on "The Mind Altering World of Drugs" at Monterey Peninsula College tomorrow (Friday) in the amphitheatre.

The talk will begin at noon and the public is invited.

"There are many youthful life styles an absence of hope or an underlying sense of desperation leads to a variety of drug using behaviors; in others a more prominent aspect is the quest for meaning and feeling and in still other, 'simple' pleasure seeking is the motive."

Creator and former director of the Center for Special Problems, San Francisco Department of Public Health, Dr. Fort is the author of several books and articles on drug problems. His appearance at MPC is sponsored by the college's Community Counseling Program, which is affiliated with Project Aquarius in Monterey.

Dr. Fort has served as a consultant on drug abuse to the World Health Organization and to the Office of Economic Opportunity. He has been a witness before national and state legislative committees dealing with drug-related problems and he is a leading spokesman for a public health approach to drug abuse.

WHO CAN BEAT NIXON ?

That's the challenge of the new WHO CAN BEAT NIXON game. Great for home parties, gifts for your political-oriented friends. You'll have a lot of fun getting ready for your own primaries and then the final battle with one challenger against President Nixon for the 1972 presidential sweepstakes.

Play . . .

Sen. George McGovern
Sen. Edward Kennedy
Sen. Edmund Muskie
Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey
Mayor John Lindsay
Gov. George Wallace

President Nixon himself!

WHO CAN BEAT NIXON is a contest for up to seven challengers against Richard M. Nixon for the Presidency of the United States. To win, the challenger or Nixon must be the first to gain 270 electoral votes of the 538 cast by the state electoral colleges. Players obtain electoral votes by a combination of money, media points, and the luck of the dice.

WHO CAN BEAT NIXON is full of pitfalls—for everybody. You'll land on various states and buy their electoral votes, if you have enough money and media support, AND if the state isn't pre-empted by the "home state" principle.

WHO CAN BEAT NIXON allows you to draw MEDIA cards, and you and the other candidates can be awarded—or punished—by fictitious endorsements of the press. You also draw EVENT cards—and just as in real life your fate is decided by the course of these events. In the EVENT deck are PRIMARY cards. These precipitate contests that eliminate contenders as the campaign draws to a close. Nixon, naturally, can't be eliminated by PRIMARY cards, but he does run into special problems created by the MEDIA and EVENT cards, and in unforeseen problems awaiting him on the board. Penalties set at places like CABINET SHAKE-UP, KICKBACK SCANDAL, and CREDIBILITY GAP make the going heavy. There's a place for PEACE, too, but only Nixon wins an Eastern state when he lands there!

WHO CAN BEAT NIXON is an exciting, stimulating, fun-filled game, exasperating and rewarding as a real-life campaign! It isn't rigid . . . you can change the game to suit your own ideas of how a campaign should go—just by filling out the additional blank MEDIA and EVENT cards to fit your special interests and concerns.

20 Vineyards Await You

Among California's many wine producing regions, one of the most interesting and picturesque is the Napa Valley. Located 90 minutes northeast of San Francisco on Highway 20, the area is home to 20 vineyards and wineries. Wine grapes of many varieties have flourished in the valley since the 1850's, when European settlers imported them from the continent. The climate and soil of the Napa region perfectly match (and in some ways surpass) the European wine regions. Many of the original buildings still stand, constructed of native stone, redwood, or brick.

Year-round, most wineries offer free guided tours which demonstrate to visitors the various states of winemaking -- crushing of grapes, fermentation, storage, and bottling. These tours usually end in the tasting room where visitors may sample some of the specialties of the vintner. Inglenook, Christian Brothers, Mondavi, and Charles Krug are only a few of the famed winemakers situated in this region.

Drive Is On Target

The United Fund drive for 1971 reached the $25,000 mark this week, campaign chairman Robert L. Meester said. The drive has been underway just two weeks.

"This is right on target, but we'll have to work real hard through the middle part of our campaign now to achieve our goal," Meester said. The Fund hopes to raise $230,000 through the eight-week campaign.

Meester hopes the return envelopes of huge residential mailing will show a marked upturn in the next week or two and he urges Peninsula residents to respond by mail.

United Fund supports 15

Peninsula services, and Meester pointed out that every cent of the money raised here is spent here.

Persons interested in contributing or helping the Fund in its campaign work are urged to call the local office at 372-8026.

BIG BUSINESS

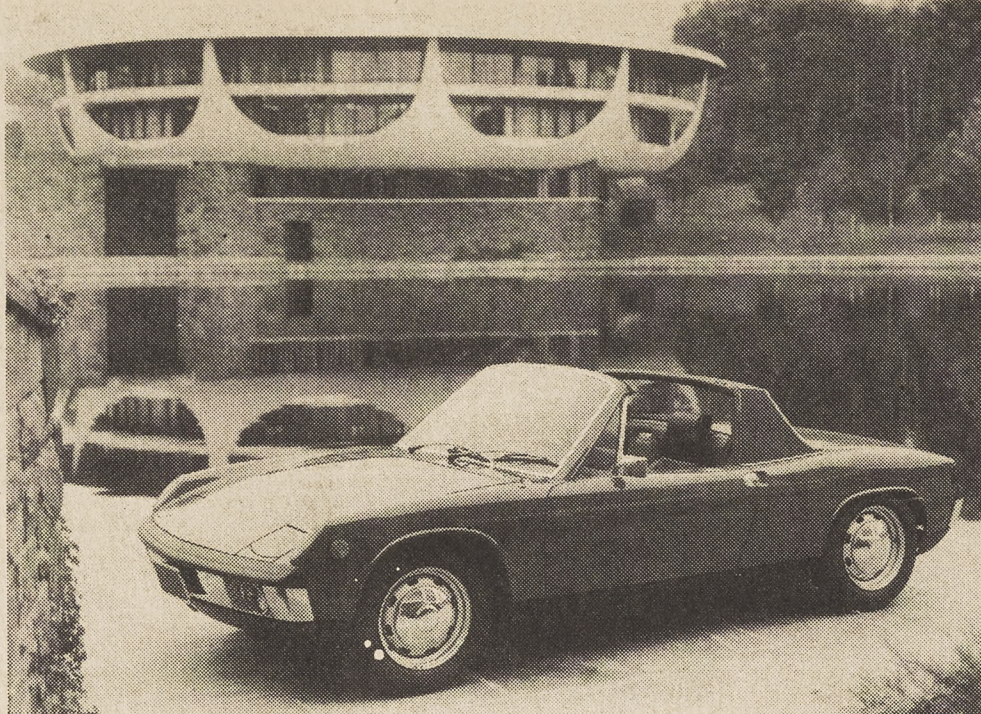

In California, the over 2.5 million credit union members have assets of nearly $3 billion. On a national scale, there are over 23,000 credit unions with assets totalling well over $15 billion.

Wildlife Film To Be Shown

"British Columbia-Mountains to the Sea," first in a series of five Audubon Wildlife Films to be shown on Thursday nights at Pacific Grove Junior High School Auditorium, will be shown tonight at 8 p.m.

Award-winning film maker Wilfr Gray, whose films have been shown internationally, will present the movie in person. In this film he records a pack horse trip into the Caribou Mountains, highlighting the changing activities of wildlife in response to the changing seasons. Swans, sea lions, moose, mountain goats and beaver are some of the animals shown.

Other films to be shown in the series, which is sponsored jointly by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and National Audubon Society, are "Filming in No-Man's Land" by John Palling, on November 18; "Mule Deer Country" by Buzz Moss, on February 3; "Treasure of East Africa" by Bower E. Rudrud, on March 2 and "Journey in Time: Reflections on the Grand Canyon" by Robert W. Davidson on March 30. All five films will be presented in person by their producers.

BEAUTY ON WHEELS - Porsche's mid-engined 914 roadster has improved ventilation system for 1972 and passenger seat has been made fully adjustable. Powered by 85-horsepower, fuel-injected engine, 194 has balanced layout with engine and passenger compartment located between front and rear axles.

Single admission is $1.25 with season tickets available for $5. The Rate for students and military personnel is 50 cents per show or $2 for the season.

Tickets will be sold at the door or may be purchased in

'Stratified Charge' Engine Must Face Rigid Testing

An experimental automobile engine that "represents a breakthrough in emissions control technology" was recently announced by President Richard Nixon at a Detroit meeting attended by leaders of the automobile industry.

President Nixon said that William D. Ruckelshaus, director of the government's Environmental Protection Agency, was ready to present a "stratified charge" engine that "in preliminary tests meets the very strict standards of the Clean Air Act."

Ruckelshaus later described the engine, which was developed by his agency, Ford Motor Company, Texaco, Inc., and the Army over a two-year period, as "the cleanest we have ever tested," pointing out, however, that "it remains to be seen how well this engine will perform in the coming 50,000 mile durability test."

Both Ford and the government agree that this engine has bettered or come close to the tough government standards set up for 1976, but note that experiments were made at zero mileage.

What really counts, the engineers say, is how clean an engine runs after it has been operating for thousands of miles.

James Gagliardi, Ford's manager of power train research and head of the engine development team, expressed doubt that the engine could even run 50,000 miles. He said "just to keep it running day to day" required two engineers and three technicians.

Ford executives expressed surprise at President Nixon's optimistic predictions. They have been working with the government for several years on pollution-free engines, several of which have been installed in test vehicles.

All of them combined have been run only about 10,000 miles. A major problem, according to Gagliardi, has been

"to keep the fire burning" properly and to inject the fuel properly. He expected that such an engine might be ready for production ten years from now, by which time devices might be perfected that eliminated pollution from the ordinary engine.

In today's automobile engine, air and gasoline are mixed in a carburetor, fed into a piston cylinder and exploded by a spark. These explosions keep the pistons pumping up and down to provide the power that is transmitted to the wheels.

But, because the burning process is not complete, the unburned gasoline leaves hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide and the high temperatures create oxides of nitrogen--the two major causes of pollution.

In the "stratified charge" engine a carefully measured amount of gasoline is injected directly into the cylinder and therefore burns more completely.

Cost Of Credit Must Be Told

Automobile dealers must tell would-be purchasers credit facts required by the Truth-in-Lending Act prior to the customer's commitment to a credit purchase rather than when the transaction is actually completed.

This ruling was made by the Federal Trade Commission by way of a consent order against Don Davis Pontiac, Inc., of Buffalo, New York, and its president, Donald L. Davis.

It was based on an FTC complaint that the firm in many instances had its customers execute an illegal agreement to purchase a new or used car on credit which did not disclose the finance charge, the annual percentage rate and other facts required by the Truth-in-Lending Act.

BUYS MORE

One hour's labor bought 1.7 pounds of choice beef in 1951. In 1970, the earnings of one hour's labor purchased 3.3 pounds of choice beef.

REAL ESTATE

A retail installment contract containing credit-cost disclosures was signed only at the time of delivery of the car.

Willful violations of the Truth-in-Lending Act are punishable by fines of up to $5,000 and imprisonment for up to one year.

Consumers victimized by violations are entitled to receive twice the amount of the finance charge--but not less than $100 or more than $1,000--as well as any costs of legal action and a reasonable attorney's fee.

Let us help you. We listen. 24 hrs. WE CARE. We're Free. Suicide Prevention Center 373-0713.

Pesticides Cause Ban On Fishing

Two major lakes in Mississippi have been closed to commercial fishing following a report from the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA), that fish from the lakes contained pesticides as much as three times above the danger limit.

Fish tested from Lake Mossy and Lake Wolfe ranged from 10 to 79 parts per million of pesticides. The lakes were closed last Thursday.

The FDA has set five parts per million as the danger level. When fish or other seafood reaches this level they are ordered off the market. A state health department spokesman said a person would have to eat about 44 pounds of the fish at one time for immediate DDT poisoning to occur.

The real danger, he said, was the long-term cumulative effect of the pesticide.

While commercial fishermen have been stopped from taking catfish from the lakes, sports fishermen will not be prevented from fishing in the lakes. They are merely being warned that if they eat their catch, there is a hazard to their health.

The State Pollution Control Board said it was powerless to correct the fish poisoning or to take legal action against the polluters.

WHERE DO THEY GO

There are 3.7 million miles of roads and streets in the United States.

"Tomorrow morning, wind up your razor and get a perfect shave."

"Wind up my razor?"

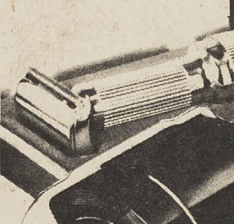

Shaving just became fun... because now there is an all-new way to shave!

Not an electric razor that chops off your whiskers. Or a safety razor that scrapes off your beard. An all-new principle--the same age old concept man uses that is used every day in every cutting operation except cutting off your beard. The Stahly "Live Blade" razor looks like a safety razor. It takes any double-edged blade YOU prefer. It works with any lather YOU like. But instead of you doing the work, you wind the handle like a watch and simply steer, as 6600 strokes a minute remove whiskers right down to the chin line.

TRY IT! For 14 days in your own home. You must be convinced that it is giving you the greatest shave ever--OR NO COST! Hurry, the Stahly is a limited production item. When those allocated to this advertisement are gone, it will be "wait for next year."

Would you invest $30 to get a perfect shave every day for the rest of your life?

The world's finest shaving instrument... just $29.95

A Full One-Year Warranty!

This razor is warranted for one year from the date of sale against defects in material and workmanship, during which period the company will repair the razor or if unable to repair it, replace it... if found to be defective under this warranty and provided the razor is returned to us prepaid.

TOTAL ASSETS

A study, ordered by Brimmer, of the condition of Black banks showed that the total assets of the 26 banks amounted to $352 million at the end of June. This represented an increase of $31 million, or approximately 10 percent, in the first six months of this year, he said.

Black banks are slowly increasing their share of total bank assets in the United States, the study showed. It rose from .049 percent at the end of 1969 to .059 percent in

The price is $1, which includes tax and postage.

It may be purchased at many state parks or by sending a check or money order to the Department of Parks and Recreation, P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento CA 95811.

It was completely updated and revised earlier this year.

Gospel-Jazz Group Tours

Conductor-aranger Ben Branch and the celebrated SCLC Operation Breadbasket Gospel Orchestra and Chorus have begun a long-awaited national tour following several weeks of intensive recording sessions.

The orchestra, which plays gospel, jazz and blues arrangements, is based in Chicago as an official component of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by the Reverend Ralph D. Abernathy of Atlanta. The Reverend Jesse Jackson is national director of SCLC's Operation Breadbasket program for economic and political development of black and minority communities.

Saxophonist Branch, who organized the unique gospel-jazz music ensemble at the request of late SCLC founder Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., said the tour is being arranged to help raise funds for SCLC chapters throughout the country and to aid local voter registration drives.

The 21-piece orchestra and chorus of three to 12 voices scheduled a preview of its tour at a gala benefit dinner performance for Mississippi gubernatorial candidate Charles Evers.

Branch and the orchestra and chorus will fill a ten-day engagement with Sammy Davis, Jr., at the Mill Run Theater in Chicago's north shore area before staging concerts in Indianapolis and Illinois for local SCLC and voter registration campaigns at the close of the year.

The tour will be continued early in 1972 in a series of memorial concerts in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday tributes January 15, Branch announced. Dates are already being considered in Washington, D.C., and New York.

Brimmer, Walker Address Group Of Black Bankers

Support -- both financial and moral -- was given to the manager of the nation's 26 Black-owned banks at a recent meeting of the National Bankers Association in Washington, D.C.

Andrew F. Brimmer, who is Black and is a governor of the Federal Reserve Board, said he saw many changes and improvements in the last year in the management of these banks.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Charles Walker reported that deposits in the nation's minority banks climbed by almost 40 percent during the 12 months that ended September 30.

Brimmer said he did not know whether the federal government had fallen short of a commitment it made last June to deposit $35 million in government funds with the Black banks.

Walker claimed that the government had exceeded its original goal of $35 million.

"We now estimate that the government programs will pass the $50 million mark within the next three months," said Walker.

GOAL SET

At a news conference sponsored by the Black banker group, the Reverend Jesse Jackson of Chicago's Operation Breadbasket set a goal of $1 billion in deposits in Black banks next year.

The Reverend Jackson called on the government to "see Black America as an undeveloped state, just as the United States looked at Japan and Germany after the war."

Referring to taxes paid by the Black community, the Reverend Jackson said:

"We have several billion dollars over in that Treasury Department and we should at least be able to use our money."

trial and commercial users, came to 1.17 cents per kilowatt hour.

The report pointed out the reason for the price disparity nationally was the preferability to large-volume users which resulted, Rutterman said, in wasteful use of power.

Rutterman said that "if future rate increases are allotted in such a way as to continue to penalize the small consumer, they would tend to hit the domestic consumers hardest--particularly the poor who need more electric power to upgrade their standard of living."

The report noted that more hydroelectric dams are needed, but said the benefits from such facilities should not be allowed to enrich big landholders and other special interests.

Public support for construction of additional dams will depend, according to Rutterman, effective assurances that there will be adequate protection of the interests of taxpayers and consumers.

Other recommendations included:

*A national energy policy to combine adequate environmental safeguards with development of necessary supplies of electric power.

*Expanded research efforts to develop safer, cleaner sources of power.

*A national power grid to permit electric use available locally to meet peak demand in various regions.

*A halt to monopolistic attempts by big oil companies to control coal and other energy fuels.

*Equal treatment for publicly-owned utilities in selection of sites for new power plants and in regional planning and power pooling arrangements.

Fair-Share Power Pricing Policy Is Recommended

Residential consumers of electricity used 32 percent of electric energy consumed in 1970, but paid 43 percent of the bill, according to a report issued by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

The association is comprised of approximately 1,000 consumer-owned electrical cooperatives in rural areas of the United States.

The 61-page report, written by consultant Stanley H. Rutterman, a former assistant secretary of labor and a former research director for the AFL-CIO, said pricing policies favor large industries and business firms.

This practice is universal, according to the report, but private utilities are more prone to shortchange homeowners and apartment dwellers than publicly-owned systems.

Industrial and commercial users consumed 41 percent of electrical power in 1970, but were responsible for only 25 percent of revenues received.

The report stated
